AMORGINA

RESORT

WELCOME

Amorgos is still a place you reach with intention. Agios Pavlos sits at its quietest edge, facing Nikouria Island and the open Aegean. Amorgina was built to belong here — in the landscape, in the light, in the pace of the island. We hope you carry something of that home with you.

This directory is a practical companion for your stay. Everything else — recommendations, arrangements, questions — our team handles directly. Reception is open around the clock.

Warmly,
Amorgina Team

THE ISLAND WE SHARE

Amorgos has remained itself because people have chosen to treat it carefully. We built Amorgina with that same responsibility in mind, in the materials we chose, the suppliers we work with, and the way we operate day to day.

We ask guests to join us in this: use water and energy with care, dispose of waste thoughtfully, and leave the beaches and paths as you found them. Small habits, collectively, make the difference.

www.amorgos.gr

Amorgos has been spared the fate of more accessible islands. The ferries are fewer, the infrastructure modest, the visitors self-selecting. What remains is the island itself: dramatic cliffs, translucent water, a pace that requires nothing of you.

A few things worth knowing about:

MONASTERY OF PANAGIA HOZOVIOTISSA

Built in the 11th century into the face of a 300-metre cliff above the sea. One of the most extraordinary sacred sites in Greece. Modest dress required. Worth the drive and the climb.

CHORA

The whitewashed capital sits on a ridge above Katapola. Its windmills, narrow lanes, and small squares reward slow exploration. Several good tavernas and an excellent local spirit — Psimeni Raki — to accompany the evening.

BEACHES

The beaches of Amorgos offer a diverse and wild beauty, ranging from the famous deep blue waters of Agia Anna beneath the breathtaking Hozoviotissa Monastery to the dramatic pebble landscape and sea caves of Mouros. Visitors seeking a more family-friendly environment can visit the sandy shores of Aegiali and Kalotaritissa. Our concierge can advise on conditions and the best approach for each.

NIKOURIA ISLAND

The small island directly in front of the resort is a nature reserve, visible from every terrace. Boat excursions run regularly in summer — a half-day trip that includes swimming in the sea caves and along the island's undeveloped coastline.

HIKING

Amorgos has a network of ancient stone paths connecting its villages and monasteries. The trail system is well-maintained and largely unmarked by tourist infrastructure — bring water and ask us for a map before you set out.

LOCAL TABLE

Patatato is the island's slow-cooked goat dish — found in traditional tavernas in Chora and Aegiali. Psimeni Raki is the local digestif, warm-spiced and assertive. Both are worth seeking out.

BOTANICAL PARK

The Amorgos Botanical park, located a short distance from the port in Katapola, is a peaceful sanctuary dedicated to the island's unique flora and endemic herbs. Visitors can explore the pathways filled with aromatic plants like sage, thyme, and wild capers, relax at the open-air cafe enjoying organic herbal teas and snacks, or purchase handmade natural products.
